By Alex Marsh, Laura Sheridan, Christine Potter

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Remember the poems we used to read at school? This is the Night Mail crossing the border, bringing the cheque and the postal order. Half a league, half a league, half a league onward. All in the valley of death rode the six hundred. There were fun poems like The Owl and the Pussycat and Edward Lear s limericks. There were stories like The Rime of the Ancient Mariner and The Pied Piper of Hamelin. There was stirring stuff: Tyger tiger burning bright and silly stuff like Jabberwocky. not forgetting inspirational poems like Kipling s If. We thrilled to them, read them over and over - even learned some of them by heart. So what happened? Why is it that most people today don t bother with poetry? Great poems are still being written. Modern poems. We believe we ve captured some in our latest anthology. All in all, it s a great little package to dip into while you re waiting in the post-office queue. Happy reading.
