I worked on an average, about 18 hours per day, with results unsatisfactory to myself and disadvantageous to the company. To show some of the discipline (?) on that road in comparison with the operation of the German railroads of which we have heard this evening, permit me to relate a personal experience with a passenger train flagman. One of the cars of a train on which I was traveling West one morning, developed a very hot box, which compelled us to stop to fix it. The conductor told the rear brakeman, whom he called Jack, to go back with the flag. He then went forward to hurry the work on the hot box. I was interested in seeing where Jack went. Being wreck master I wasn't looking for any job in that line (laughter)....
