Excerpt from American Medical Journalist, Vol. 5: September 1901 I have been led to offer these desultory thoughts on medical journalism, because I have been informed that it was planned to reorganize this Association and to endeavor to make it useful and helpful to its members, as well as elevating to medical journalism in this country. Personally, I should not care to be a member of an association of this kind unless some standard of ethics were adopted and maintained. I hope there will be a very general and open expression of opinion on this subject, for I am very well aware of the fact that many who are members of this Association do not share my views as to what constitutes the proper ethics of medical journalism, and I should like to know whether my position is that of the majority of those present at this meeting. Or whether, as I almost fear, I am in a hopeless minority. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
