I Hated School But Loved Homeschooling an Insight Book for Parents of Autistic Children and Homeschooling (Paperback)

By Alana Monet-Telfer

Lulu.com, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This is not any old Book. This eBook is one of my most prized possessions, which took blood, sweat, tears, pain; and four years to complete. You may wonder why this eBook took so much of me to create; let alone why would I go through so much to create something which almost destroyed me. The reason is because it was all about me and the demons I faced. The eBook contains the story of my childhood as a home schooled child with Autism and Expressive and Receptive Language Disorder. I realized my childhood was a massive struggle, and I faced many challenges that even an average child might not have faced yet. Feeling I can help someone else with my story, experiences, as well as being now at the age of twenty; I have decided to create an insight/autobiography book to help children, home school children, parents, parents who may be thinking of homeschooling; and already homeschooling parents learn from my life experiences; and hopefully be able to help them make the most important decisions of their life.
