TRANSACTIONS FOR 1873 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Transactions for 1873 Which line he is the locomotive engineer. The Compan are twelve in number, and are arranged of the mpany s line to Blackwall. They com rise turning, fitting, and nding shops, erecting shops, boiler ops. Carriage building an repairing shops, smiths shops, and carriage and engine sheds. As the Company build nearly the whole of their engines and carriages, the members had a ood opportunity afforded them of acquainting themselves wi locomotive and carriage construction in all their departments. Various matters of interest were brought under notice in the shape of labour saving machines, of which there were several, amongst them being a machine for finishing the outside of engine 0 linders, and also for re-boring them without removing them m the engine. After quitting the shops we were shown a very inge nious arrangement of an electric brake attached to a train of carriages about to be worked experimentally on the North London Railway. As this brake Will be described in a second per on Continuous Railway Brakes, shortly to be read by Kit. Fox before our Society, I shall only brie?y refer to it here. It consists of a very simple arrangement of powerful magnets excited by batteries carried in the carriages and in the guard s van, the ower produced being utilized in putting on the brakes. He war is applied instantaneously and with ease, and is taken 0 with ual rapidity. Should a train break in two the severance of e connection causes the brakes to be applied automatically both in the forward and rear portions of the train.
