Hamilton, Gordon, Montrose, and Argyll, are among the ducal houses alone whose charter-rooms appear to have been unvisited. We cannot suppose but that their graces would afford Mr. Laing every facility of research, especially as we observe that he has had access to the archives of Atholl, to which we presume the path does not lie through Glentilt. We would also suggest that the engravings should be brought into juxtaposition with the descriptive letterpress; or, if this is not possible, that each plate should have a direct reference to its description; the index which the reader must at present consult being about as pleasant an incident in his path as the omnibus in a railway hiatus. And so we take our leave of Mr. Laing, with hearty good wishes towards his success in the prosecution of his seal-fishery. ORKSHIRE converging to the Doncaster St. Leger, London discharging itself upon Epsom...
