Not illustrated. 1915 Excerpt: .and for the fox herd, but would allow the surplus to be economically utilized for other purposes. There are on the Aleutian Islands and elsewhere in northern Alaska many communities of natives which have been reduced to actual want through the cessation of sea-otter hunting, the extirpation or reduction in numbers of other animals formerly relied on, or from the desertion of routes of trade which formerly brought them employment. The partial or entire support of some of these people must eventually be borne by the Government. Unalaska was formerly the center of a prosperous sea-otter trade, and later the scene of much activity by reason of its being a stopping place for vessels bound for northern Alaska, but is now of little importance as a port, and its inhabitants are much reduced in circumstances. To such a community a portion of the seal meat which might be wasted on the Pribilofs, only 200 miles away, would be of the utmost importance. It is also by no means unlikely that a market for a quantity of the surplus meat, which is very nourishing and not unpalatable, might be found among the poorer classes in the cities of the west coast of the United States. A further important advantage to be gained by the use of cold storage would be found in the possibility of limiting the driving and killing of seals to the season when females are not associated with the young males. The accidental and...
