Mr. Carrington having suggested to me to observe the angles of position of a series of tangents to the curve formed by the eastern edge of the tail, I endeavoured to do so; though my apparatus is not well suited to such an observation, for which a veiy low power and large field would be more appropriate than those ordinarily belonging to the parallel wiremicrometer. It is essential that the points at which the wire is made, a tangent should be pretty accurately determined; but this was not very easy to do. The mode which struck me as the most practicable was, to fix on certain differences of north polar distance from the nucleus. Having, therefore, brought the nucleus to the cross-wires in the field,...

Definitely one of the better book We have possibly read. We have read through and i also am certain that i am going to gonna study once again yet again in the foreseeable future. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
