Northcote House, Tavistock, 2004. Paperback. Condition: New. 1st Edition. 128pp Writers & Their Work Series [In stock in Australia now for immediate despatch] Alice Munro awarded The Nobel Prize for Literature 2013. Alice Munro's standing as a major contemporary author has long been acknowledged in her native Canada, especially among her fellow writers. Her reputation has developed slowly, from small magazines and radio in the 50s, to three Governor General's Awards and regular appearances in The New Yorker. As a short story writer, she is working within a critically neglected genre. Yet short fiction displays an intensity of language and experience that is rarely sustainable across longer forms. Munro's 10 collections, including Lives of Girls and Women, Open Secrets and The Love of a Good Woman cross generic boundaries, condensing whole lifetimes within complex narrative structures. Past and present, memory and fantasy, art and fiction intermingle. Drawing on Bakhtinian theory, Ailsa Cox looks at ways in which Munro develops the short story's affinity with the present moment to suggest a fluid and ever-changing reality. Dr. Ailsa Cox is Reader and Tutor in Creative Writing, Edge Hill University, Liverpool. In addition to teaching creative writing she has published short stories in several magazines and anthologies; she was co-editor of Metropolitan Magazine and a contributor to The Creative Writing Handbook.
