Human Kinetics Publishers, United States, 2008. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Whether you need to make a case for new, improved, or expanded facilities or just want to see how you stack up against other schools, you ll find the information you need in Space Planning Guidelines for Campus Recreational Sport Facilities. The book offers the latest research on campus recreational sport facilities. The National Intramural-Recreational Sports Association (NIRSA) contracted the National Research Institute for College Recreational Sports Wellness to survey experienced campus recreational sport administrators from nearly 200 U.S. and Canadian colleges and universities, asking not only for an inventory of existing facilities but also for opinions on whether those facilities were adequate in meeting the needs of their campuses. Those data were used in developing these space-per-student facility planning guidelines. Space Planning Guidelines for Campus Recreational Sport Facilities presents the guidelines in a simple chart format so you can quickly and easily find the information that applies to your campus. All of the data are cross-referenced by facility type and total enrollment or school size. Guidelines are given for five facility types: 1. Total indoor space, including court and racket space and locker room space 2. Fitness facilities, including cardio equipment space, free-weight and strength equipment space, group exercise rooms, and multiuse spaces 3. Climbing and outdoor adventure facilities, including climbing walls and trip equipment storage space 4. Aquatic facilities 5. Outdoor sport facilities, including fields and courts The book also provides a wealth of information that will help you make the most of the guidelines. You ll be given detailed instructions for applying the guidelines and a list of factors to consider when applying the guidelines so that you can be sure that the specific needs of your institution are being met.
