Excerpt: . . . of 66, 234 square feet, or 1.52 acres. On a day with the temperature at zero, this surface will give out 17, 883, 180 heat units, equivalent to 537 H. P. , which means the burning of one ton of coal per hour, if direct steam be used. It is possible, however, to use exhaust steam from the engines and without appreciable back pressure to retard their action. This is accomplished by the Cryer Return Line System, which solves the problem of circulating exhaust steam for heating through such a large number of radiators and for such great distances without back pressure on the engines. This system is very simple: it consists of a Cryer valve placed on the return end of each radiator, connecting into the return piping, on which a vacuum is maintained by means of vacuum pumps in the engine...
