OceanNEvironment, 2002. Hardback. Condition: New. Dust Jacket Condition: Fine. First Edition. The sea of Sarawak is located in the heartland of the epicentre of marine bio-diversity - the richest in the world. The region is thought to harbour over 3,000 species of fishes and invertebrate life in unimaginable numbers. The Philippines in the north, Bali, Kalimantan, Sulawesi and the neighbouring state of Babah, are all internationally acclaimed destinations for snorkelers, underwater photographers and scuba divers from around the world. Books and magazine editorials about these places are published over and over again. Yet beneath Sarawak remains an enigma, shrouded in the mist of the Borneo Sea. There are very few pictures published of the life beneath the waves of one of the world's last remaining pristine reefs. Underwater Jungles encapsulates the reefs in perspective, revealed through images never before seen in one volume. They are new pictures; they are an exploratory documentation of impressions that thrilled the senses. The imagery reveals the secret gardens of Sarawak in flamboyant colours and the animals that live in this biological wonderland. Immense has never been so big nor numbers so uncountable, colours never so vivid or so rich. book.
