Excerpt from A Standard History of Allen County, Ohio, Vol. 1: An Authentic Narrative of the Past, With Particular Attention to the Modern Era in the Commercial, Industrial, Educational, Civic and Social Development When in the course of human events it becomes the privilege and duty of a community to tabulate its centennial record, the matter of co-operation is a prime necessity. Just as Allen County is passing its first centenary the spirit of co-operation and reconstruction is claiming the attention of the whole world. Never before in the history of the world has it been in such unsettled, chaotic condition. While the Ft. Amanda episode connected with the War of 1812 was in advance of the organization of Allen County, and while some would say there is no local history aside from the traditions clustering about it, their attention is hereby called to some of the phenomenal advances in local civilization. There have been rapid strides in agriculture, manufacturing and commercial developments within the 100 years since Allen County has had its name and outline; it passed its centenary February 12, 1920, and the record of the last fifty years is an easier matter than tabulating the events of the first half century. The pioneers were not addicted to the habit of writing down the news of the community. In his editorial announcement concerning A Standard History of Allen County, the Hon. William Rusler as supervising editor, says: As editor, my task will be to direct the collection of all historical material that should find a permanent place in the records of Allen County and to insure as far as possible an impartial and accurate treatment of this material, according...
