Bodybuilding has not changed over the last 50 years that I have been involved in the game. The reason why most people fail to put on any amount of muscle mass is, because they tend to do advanced techniques right from the word go. Bodybuilding is a science and like science, if you miss out, or skip an element then, the experiment will fail. Bodybuilding is without doubt one of the most difficult sports to get yourself involved with, because bodybuilding requires not only physical strength, and determination, but the knowledge to understand how the body works. Not understanding...
