French philosopher and literary theorist Roland Barthes was one of the leading influences on the post-structuralist movement in twentieth-century literary thought, and some of his best-known works, like S/Z , speak directly to the essential and individual relationship between a reader and a literary text. Here, in Incidents , readers have the privilege of going inside the life and thought of Barthes, through a work that is a testament to Barthes belief that a literary work should invite the full, active participation of the reader. The essays collected in Incidents , originally published in French shortly after Barthes death, provide unique insight into the author s life, his personal struggles, and his delights. Though Barthes questioned the act of keeping a journal with the aim of having it published, he decided to undertake a diary-like experiment in four parts. The first, which gives the collection its title, is a revealing personal account of his time living in Morocco. The second, The Light of the Southwest , is an ode to Barthes favorite region in France, while in At Le Palace Tonight , Barthes describes a vibrant Paris entertainment spot. Finally, the journal entries of Evenings in Paris reveal Barthes as an older gay man, struggling with his desire for young lovers. Rendered here in a fresh and lyrical translation, Incidents will delight fans of Barthes other works, as well as anyone curious for a look inside the mind of one of the twentieth century s foremost intellectuals.
