STATE PRISON. --ohn Lofquist, a life prisoner in the Columbus, O. , penitentiary, has, during the term of his incarceration, raised a flock of several hundred pigeons. Every one of the birds knows him and will go to him at call. He says that each has a name and that he can tell one from the other by the difference in their faces, which he claims are as characteristic as the faces of human beings. The pigeons, when they take up their morning fly for exercise, soar high up in the air and circle above, but never, unless driven by hunger, go beyond the boundary of the big walls. MIGRATION OF HAWKS IN RHODE ISLAND. BY c. G. DUNN, BOSTON, MASS. In certain sections of Rhode Island large flights of hawks may be seen during the latter part of August, and through September and October, whenever there is a stormy north-west wind. Having had the good fortune to be present during their flights I have had abundant opportunity to study them. They seem to follow the coast, as three miles back from the shore only a few stragglers can be found. During September I have taken specimens of the pigeon, sparrow, cooper's, broad-winged, red-shoilded, red-tailed, marsh, sharpshiniid, duck and goshawk. A great many hawks are shot by local gunners and farmers, as they claim they are during these flights very destructive to poultry. In my opinion they seldom kill poultry, as of sixty hawks examined...
