Excerpt from Memoirs of the Comte Roger De Damas: 1787-1806; Edited and Annotated Since he was unable to satisfy his warlike instincts at once he at first divided his time between his garrison and the Court, where he was presented on the 26th September, 1784. he soon became known there for his wit and sensibility. He became one of the many adorers of the beautiful Marquise de Coigny - the Queen of Paris, as she was called with some asperity by the Queen of Versailles, Marie Antoinette. The affair of the rose, which involved him in a duel with the Comte de Broglie and figured largely, for a short time, in the conversation of the courtiers, made his reputation as a man of the world.<sup>5</sup> In the same year he made a journey to Berlin, like other young soldiers of his day, to complete his military education. Eighteen months later, being tired of waiting for what he called the sublimity of war, he suddenly embarked on an adventure that was destined, with the help of the Revolution, to lead him all over Europe and to last for many a long year.
