From a historical point of view, architecture is the practice rather than theory has been defined. Huayi design established in two decades. China building rapid catch up with modern architecture through the centuries of Western history . . After a sufficient number of suspected and blind obedience, learning and rejected more than enough left over to create and copy, and critical acclaim, but also the accumulation of enough persist and give . loss and success. As Herman Hertzberger all said. Few can successfully evade the architecture it is obviously difficult to escape the fate - for one or another response to the trend, rather than abandon the surface of the fashion and downtown and on behalf of the of the true reality. However, the development of today who claimed that architecture today does not look too bad more restrictions . in the call to change the strict constraints, everything seemed to have no limit and in a reckless state . . today's world of architecture is similar to a football match, only...
