After his cousin is in a traumatic accident, Michael McCabe is thrown into the hospital environment and becomes fascinated by the role of a Clinical Pharmacist in the Intensive Care Unit. He sets his sight on a career as a clinical pharmacist and lands a position in the Medical Intensive Care Unit at the research focused Arbor Regional Medical Center in Ann Arbor, Michigan. In collaboration with the Chief of Critical Care, he participates in a number of research projects involving the study of investigational drugs for pharmaceutical companies. Michael is given the opportunity to lead a study of a unique investigational antiviral agent in patients who are admitted to the Medicine and Pediatric Intensive Care Units with complications from the flu. Dr. Jeanine Dunn, a Medicine-Pediatrics physician resident, joins him on this research enterprise. Neither ever expected that their dedication and close involvement with this research study would ultimately place their lives in jeopardy. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
