

The Famous Ghalib

By Ralph Russell

Alhamra. Soft cover. Book Condition: New. Dust Jacket Included. 1st Edition. This book presents a selection from the Urdu verse of Ghalib (1797 1869), the greatest (in the translators opinion) of all the poets of Urdu and Persian that the subcontinent has produced. This selection has been specially selected to exclude those of his verses which are replete with allusions which present day readers would not understand. They do, however, cover a wide range of his thought. Those who wish to understand the full range of what Ghalib has to offer will find the guidance they need in the essay Getting to Know Ghalib, and for those who know Urdu, the essay On Translating Ghalib will be of particular interest since it deals with the problems of presenting Ghalib in English dress. My yearning stirs once more to see someone confronting me The daggers of her eyelashes sharp with collyrium My spirit seeks once more the leisure I once had to sit Lost night and day in memories of loves that won my heart Ralph Russell, born in 1918, read Classics and Geography at St. John's College, Cambridge. His first acquaintance with Urdu was during compulsory military service in India...
