AuthorHouse. Paperback. Condition: New. 744 pages. Dimensions: 7.8in. x 5.1in. x 1.9in. A local Pulaski County woman and life long resident, Vickie Spears Coomer is now a first time published author of her book: Reflections of a Taunting Past. Its an autobiography, her true life story and breathes with her very heart and soul as she shares her unedited colorful past just as she lived it, felt it and survived it. It required lots of courage, strength and patience as she stumbled through years of self-discovery, personal trials, abuse, heartbreak, betrayal and romantic missteps. Now after 7 years of hard work and emotional efforts, she opens the doors into her unedited past to share this story. Reflections is definitely a good read and well worth your time. It will have you anxiously awaiting the next page to turn or the next character to step into the story. It will warm your heart and touch your soul with sadness as you read about a little girl lost on a relentless search for love and acceptance. Sometimes finding it, only to have it taken away, or finding herself being discarded. Theres also humor, life threatening danger, death, sex, guns and yes, even high speed chases. She lived this story, surviving to write about it in her own way and did it all herself. The complete book, the editing, and the front and rear cover designs. In no way does she claim to be perfect. Its the contents of the book and its stories thats important to her. So as you read if you find a few flaws thats OK, its kinda like her, not a perfect piece of work. Her past in some ways has taken its toll, but she has also somehow partially emerged a wiser more cautious woman. Now a middle...
