CCTV TO PREVENT CRIME?

Grin Verlag Jun 2009, 2009. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 219x146x20 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Titel. - Essay from the year 2008 in the subject Sociology - Law, Delinquency, Abnormal Behavior, printed single-sided, grade: 2.0, University of Münster, course: Experiencing the city, language: English, abstract: The appearance of surveillance cameras in public areas in the UK (streets, parks, car parks, shopping malls etc) is obvious to everyone using these kinds of spaces. They are used to watch people s activities and behaviour and, if necessary react towards crime or anti-social behaviour. The UK is by far the most advanced country in Europe in regards to public surveillance research and installation. In the last decade the coverage has grown dramatically. In 1990 there were three town centre schemes with approximately 100 cameras and in 2002 there were approximately 500 schemes with around 40,000 cameras. The impression can be made that it is used as a general tool to prevent crime and promote a safer and cleaner community. But is it as effective as it promises to be and to what extent does it effect people s perception and activity in neighbourhoods and cities To what extent does CCTV influences the urban designer work What needs to be considered when implementing CCTV in existing and new developments This paper will help to understand the complexity of this question and issues related with its context. One approach to the topic lays in the question: Why do people feel scared and insecure in public areas The fear of crime has become an important issue to consider within urban design and town planning. Being afraid of being a victim of crime can be positive if it leads to increased crime prevention, but it can also affect people's quality of...
