Ebola Safari: One Nurse s Experience Inside the Sierra Leone Epidemic is an account of the author s experience during the West Africa Ebola virus outbreak in Sierra Leone. As a nurse volunteer, he was part of a contingent of healthcare personnel recruited by a United States medical nongovernmental organization to administer skilled medical care to victims infected with the Ebola virus. As a nurse involved with the response to the Ebola epidemic, he finds he has to negotiate a challenging international bureaucracy while simultaneously reconfiguring his developed world medical training to adapt to challenging Third world conditions in the midst of a novel and puzzling disease epidemic. The nurse s assigned destination is Port Loko, Sierra Leone in December, 2014, the height of the epidemic. There he undergoes a crash course in personal safety, infection control and untested treatment plans regards the Ebola virus and learns to acclimate to the multiple languages of other national contingencies that comprise the staff of the Maforki Ebola Treatment Unit. The story recounts the minimalist infrastructure and materials of the make-shift Maforki ETU and how workers needed to be on constant guard against the Ebola virus. Additional challenges of heat, sanitation, confusing logistics, multiple languages, cultural norms, dogs and tropical diseases that mimic Ebola confront the staff as they attempt to be part of an eclectic team thrown together on short notice. The unifying constant of the book is how patients and staff maintain a singular and shared vision to endure beyond the immediate discomforts and threats to life. Staff cohesion matures and eventually patients admitted to Maforki experience better odds of survival as a result, increasing...
