

Chasing the Wind (Paperback)

By Walter Lubars

Createspace, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Chasing the Wind is the dramatic story of two families who immigrate from Poland and Russia to the United States around the turn of the century, and meet in New York City. The novel starts in 1895 and ends in 1946. In between, we meet a variety of arresting characters, including Abe Landers -- the flamboyant main character -- and Sarah, his long-suffering, but devoted wife. Also Fat Farfel; Big Louie; Dave the Russian; Officer Mahoney; Ugly Ralphie; Melvin Sheldon; Joe Stretch; Aaron the communist; Leibel, the underwear salesman; Uncle Manuel and his friend from the beyond, the Great Mondini; Tanya, the stuck-up German whose parents return to Poland rather than live with her in America; and William, Abe and Sarah's son, the budding writer. . . . Chasing the Wind opens with a short description of Chatzke Rozan and Leah Meklesski, and their five children. Chatzke emigrates to the United States, where he plans to work for six months and then bring the rest of the family over. Unfortunately, World War I intervenes, and Leah must survive deprivation, hunger, and alternate...
