14 Hands Press, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The New York Times calls Joe Camp a master storyteller. When he gets passionate about something it always winds up being woven into an engaging story so you will devour every essence and read it over and over again. He believes that horses love the opportunity to grow with you, and have fun with you. to learn new things and be rewarded in a positive way that they truly enjoy. Joe s words: I believe if you say to your horse: Do something I like and I ll do something you like you will find that he will become the most willing of partners. I also believe that thorses love being able to speak to you, to initiate conversation. Like Cash does when he walks up and offers his big toothy smile, saying, Might I have a treat please? Many trainers dislike the use of treats for training. Some even say we shouldn t talk to our horses. Training should all be based upon body language, just as the horses use with each other in the herd. We believe that the horse s language is important because once the horse understands that you know his language, once you have given him the choice of trusting you, of being in relationship with you, and once you have proven your leadership to the horse then he has a clear capability to grow and understand our language. To learn things he might not have ever had the chance to learn if he had remained in a herd somewhere. Sort of like you grew when you went off to school. Teaching your horse that you understand his herd language is a must in the beginning. But we...
