Excerpt from The American Legion Monthly, Vol. 18: January, 1935 At this hour of doom Van Deman was detailed to the General Staff for the second time and assigned to the War College Division. He was the only one there who had any training in Military Intelligence, and he was shocked at the state of affairs. He persuaded the President of the War College to let him write a memorandum to the Chief of Staff asking for a revival of the Information activity. But no attention was paid to the request. Two other memoranda met the same fate. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
